He has lifted me to the Heavens; you He has put to flight; For the rest of time I share the throne, I am no longer subject to you. He took my body that He might make it new; He will make it immortal and cause it to share His throne. I shall reign with Him, for I have been resurrected with Him. No longer are you my master; but I rule over you. My pledge of surety is now on high, But you are trampled on below by those who cry, «Where, O Death, is your victory, or where your strength? God has destroyed your strength Through the Resurrection.»

St Romanos the Melodist - On The Resurrection III

Jesus Christ arose then, as from a sleep; He violently bound the hands of Hades, Crying to those in Hades, «Rise up, and mock Hades, crying out to him, And saying 'Where is your victory?' As for him, I shall hand him over in chains in Tartarus, Since I have freed Adam entirely from the debts for which he was liable. And treading on his neck, cry out, 'Now Hades is consumed Along with Death, and he has cast down his power.' For it is for you that I appeared on earth and became man, I Who have destroyed the weapons of Belial, the victory of Hades, and the sting of Death."

St Romanos the Melodist - On the Resurrection V

Suddenly sorrow has been changed to joy, And all has become joyous and a cause for rejoicing; I do not hesitate to say, 'I have been glorified as Moses,' For I have seen, I have seen -- not on the mountain, but in the tomb, Not concealed by a cloud, but by flesh, The Lord of the Immortals and of the clouds, Lord of old, now and forever; And He said, 'Mary, hasten and tell Those who love Me that I have arisen; Take Me on your tongue, like a branch of the olive To the descendants of Noah; announce the good news, Pointing out to them that death is destroyed and that He has arisen, He Who offers resurrection to the fallen.'

The Kontakia of Romanos, On the Resurrection VI

The women, with mingled joy and fear, rejoicing and sorrow, Turned away from the tomb, as the Bible teaches, To meet the apostles; and they said: «Why are you disheartened? Why do you hide your faces? Lift up your hearts, Christ is risen; Form choruses and say along with us: 'The Lord is risen.' He has shone forth, He Who was created before the dawn; So be not downcast, but take courage; Spring has appeared; come to bloom, ye branches, Producing fruit and not misery. Let us all clap our hands and say: He offers resurrection to the fallen».

St Romanos the Melodist - On The Resurrection VI

You, O Savior, did come forth unbegotten From the Virgin's womb, leaving her virginity unsullied; Just so now You have abolished Death in death. You have left in the tomb the fine linen of Joseph, But You have raised from the tomb the ancestor of Joseph; For Adam came following You; Eve came after you, Eve serves Mary, But all the earth is prostrate before You as it sings the song of victory «The Lord is risen.»
